

Statement of the Free Trade Commission on notices of intent to submit a claim to arbitration

A. Statement

The Free Trade Commission has determined that the attached form for notices of intent to submit a claim to arbitration, if properly completed, will satisfy the requirements of Article 1119 of the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA) and help clarify the basis of a claim, and recommends that disputing investors use it.

B. Notice of Intent to Submit a Claim to Arbitration

1. Article 1118 of the NAFTA provides that “[t]he disputing parties should first attempt to settle a claim through consultation or negotiation.” Article 1119 of the NAFTA requires that a disputing investor provide written notice of its intent to submit a claim to arbitration at least 90 days before the claim may be submitted.
2. Efforts to settle NAFTA investment claims through consultation or negotiation have generally taken place only after the delivery of the notice of intent. The notice of intent naturally serves as the basis for consultations or negotiations between the disputing investor and the competent authorities of a Party. In order to provide a solid foundation for such discussions, it is important that the notice of intent clearly identify the investor and the investment and specify the precise nature of the claims asserted.
3. The Free Trade Commission recommends that the attached form be filled out in its entirety by each disputing investor. If additional space is needed to complete certain fields, extra pages may be added or information may be provided in a separate document.
4. For convenience, the places for delivery of notices of intent on Canada, México, and the United States are appended to this form.
5. If a claim is against México, the notice of intent and any accompanying documents should be submitted in Spanish or together with a translation into Spanish if they are submitted in English or French. If a claim is against the United States, the notice of intent and any accompanying documents should be submitted in English or together with a translation into English if they are submitted in Spanish or French. If a claim is against Canada, the notice of intent and any accompanying documents should be submitted in English or French together with a translation into English or French if they are submitted in Spanish.
6. The languages in which a notice of intent and any accompanying translations are submitted do not in any way prejudice any disputing party’s position on the language of the arbitration.
7. The form may be reproduced freely.
