

International Trade in Services Benefits Oregon's Companies and Workers

IMPORTANCE OF SERVICES TO THE OVERALL U.S. ECONOMY

- The United States is the world's leading services exporting nation. International services markets offer huge opportunities for U.S. firms and their employees, accounting today for nearly one-third of total U.S. exports. Total elimination of global barriers to trade in services could raise U.S. annual income by over $450 billion or $6,830 per family of four.
- U.S. services exports have doubled over the past 10 years. The United States recorded a $66 billion surplus on exports totaling $381 billion in 2005. This surplus was 22 percent higher than in 2004. Sales through U.S. services companies operating abroad measured $477 billion in 2003. These international transactions support high-paying jobs across the United States.

IMPORTANCE OF SERVICES TO THE OREGON ECONOMY

- The services sector represents 70 percent of sales by Oregon businesses, employs 78 percent of the workforce, and pays 73 percent of the state's $41 billion in wages.¹
- Services exporters in Oregon employed over 20,000 people and generated $340 million in export revenues in 2002.² For example:
 - Professional, scientific and technical industry exporters from Oregon employed 12,200 people and generated $265 million in export revenues.
 - Publishing exporters from Oregon employed 4,200 people and generated $50 million in export revenues.
 - Telecommunications industry exporters from Oregon employed 3,000 people and generated $22 million in export revenues.
- Affiliates of foreign services companies are part of this success. In 2004, they had over $2.8 billion invested in property, plants, and equipment (PPE) in Oregon and supported over 11,000 jobs.³ Some of the important sectors and companies include:
 - Wholesale trade (2004: 7,400 employed, $2.5 billion PPE). Major foreign food and beverage firms such as Sodexo (French) participate in the Oregon wholesale industry.
