To Carmen Suro-Bredie, Chief FOIA Officer:

Hello. This is a request under the federal Freedom of Information Act, as amended, 5 USC 552. I am seeking all Congressional requests for action/information to the Office of the U.S. Trade Representative from December 1, 2010 through March 1, 2011. I would also like USTR's response to the Congressional requests for action/information. I would like the information to be provided in electronic form, if possible.

I am requesting this information for the purpose of possible public dissemination in a news article and therefore request that you waive charges pursuant to 5 USC 552 (a) (4) (A), Fed. Reg. 7296, Section 1900.25. I'm a reporter for Dow Jones Newswires. I also request expedited processing of my request due to the timeliness of the material.

If you deny this request for a waiver, please advise me in advance of the estimated charges so that I may decide whether to pay the fees or appeal your denial of my request for a waiver of charges.

As I am making this request in the capacity of a journalist and this information is of timely value, I would appreciate your communicating with me by telephone, rather than by mail, if you have any questions regarding this request. Thank you for your assistance, and I will look forward to receiving your reply within 20 business days, as required by law.

Sincerely,

Dear Ms. Caldwell:

The Freedom of Information Act ("FOIA") is one of the most important tools for government transparency and accountability. In their mission to find waste, fraud, and abuse, the oversight and investigative committees of Congress, including the Committee on Oversight and Government Reform ("Committee"), are often assisted by tips, complaints, and briefings from media organizations, watchdog groups, and concerned citizens. These private-sector actors are often the first to become aware of federal inefficiency or malfeasance. FOIA allows them to scrutinize the activities of federal agencies. Without FOIA, they could not hold the government accountable, nor could they provide crucial assistance to Congressional oversight. President Obama recognized the importance of FOIA when he made it the subject of an executive memorandum on his second day in office.¹

The Committee, as the principal oversight committee in the House of Representatives with broad oversight jurisdiction as set forth in House Rule X, is very interested in ensuring that all federal agencies respond in a timely, substantive, and non-discriminatory manner to requests for information under FOIA. To enable the Committee to understand the impact of recent changes to FOIA procedures and to evaluate agencies' compliance with FOIA, please provide the following information, records, and explanations by February 15, 2011 at 5:00 pm.

1. Provide your agency's FOIA log(s) for the five years preceding the date of this letter, in Microsoft Excel or a similar format that allows sorting by column or information category, including at least the following information: (a) the name of the requestor; (b) the date of the request; (c) a brief description of the documents or records sought by the request; (d) any tracking number assigned to the request by your agency pursuant to

2. On each log provided in response to Request No. 1, identify each FOIA request to your agency that was submitted more than 45 days prior to the date of this letter and to which your agency has not yet issued a complete and final response.

3. For each FOIA request identified in response to Request No. 2, provide all communications between your agency and the requestor.

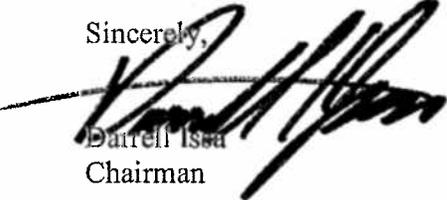

4. Identify any federal judicial action in which your agency, within the five years preceding the date of this letter, has been ordered by the court to pay any attorneys' fees or other litigation costs incurred by a FOIA requestor under 5 U.S.C. § 552(a)(4)(E) or under any similar law or regulation.

5. For each federal action identified in response to Request No. 4, provide a copy of the court order requiring your agency to pay attorney fees or other litigation costs.

Please note that for purposes of responding to this request, the terms "records," "communications," and "referring or relating" should be interpreted consistently with the attached Definitions of Terms.

The Honorable Darrell E. Issa
Chairman
Committee on Oversight and Government Reform
U.S. House of Representatives
Washington, D.C. 20515-6143

Dear Mr. Chairman:

Thank you for your letter of January 25, 2011, requesting information regarding USTR's Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) program. We are pleased to respond to your request.

1. Paragraph 1

We are forwarding with this reply FOIA logs setting out the information called for in subparagraphs 1 (a) through (f) of your letter. We have produced the logs in Microsoft Excel to allow sorting by column or information category.

USTR assigns a tracking number to each FOIA it receives, pursuant to Section 7 of the Open Government Act of 2007. The tracking number for each FOIA USTR received during the five-year period referred to in your letter is shown in the far left hand column of each of the logs we have provided to you. For example, the first entry on our 2006 FOIA log is number 6122040. The number can be understood as follows: 6 reflects the year (2006), 12 indicates the month (December), and 20 indicates the day USTR received the FOIA request. The number 40 is the specific number we assigned to that particular FOIA.

In reference to 1 (g), USTR does not assign additional identification numbers or codes for internal use.

2. Paragraphs 2 and 3

To provide the information called for in paragraph 2 of your letter, we have placed an asterisk in the "Date Closed" column of each log entry reflecting a FOIA request submitted more than 45 days before the date of your letter to which USTR has not issued a complete and final response. In response to paragraph 3 of your letter, for each such case we have provided copies of all electronic and other documents reflecting communications between USTR and the requestor regarding the pertinent FOIA request.

The Honorable Darrell E. Issa

3. Paragraphs 4 and 5

USTR has not been subject to a federal court order for payment of attorneys' fees or other litigation costs incurred by a FOIA requestor during the five-year period covered by your request.

Thank you for your interest in USTR's FOIA program.

Sincerely,

Jamie, I'll give you a call. Perhaps I can clarify the situation. We've consulted with an array of experts from various IP and tech industries and associations and NGOs in the process of deliberation regarding a US proposal on one section of the agreement. That's a separate matter from consideration of the release of draft text. We're continuing to consult with trading partners about possible future transparency steps, such as the step of releasing draft agendas which was announced after the last ACTA meeting.

~~Dear Jean Bonilla and Stan McCoy,~~

It is our understanding the some Washington, DC based organizations have been given access to the Internet chapter of the ACTA text, but that the text is not more generally available to the public.

I would like to submit a formal FOIA request for the names of individuals and groups that have been given access to the ACTA text. At least this should be transparent.

Second, I ask TACD be provided an explanation as to how the USTR and or State decided which of the 300 million U.S. citizen will have access to the ACTA text, and which will not have access to the text, and why the U.S. government is opposed to sharing the text with the millions of Internet users who live in the U.S.

Hi Jamie. We're processing your FOIA on the NDAs; you should have the results soon.

We are not proposing any new legal framework provisions specifically relating to pharmaceutical distribution on the Internet. I'm not sure what you mean by the PhRMA effort referenced below, but we have not had such provisions in past U.S. FTAs to my knowledge.

Thanks for the heads up on the EU efforts in this area. Do you know if it's an issue they have pushed in past trade agreements? My first instinct is to doubt whether the EU would push for something similar in ACTA if it is still under debate within the EU. If I'm wrong about that and it does come up, however, I think it would be useful for us to hear more of your views and those of other U.S. public health NGOs on the subject.

Dear Stan and Tim,

As one of the groups not consulted by USTR on ACTA, we would like to know who within the public health community has been consulted under the recent NDA agreements, regarding the U.S. proposals for the Internet. I am confident that this does not put U.S. national security at risk.

We have no way of knowing what issues are addressed in the ACTA Internet chapter. We do know there is a longstanding effort by PhRMA and its members to have some new measures relating to the Internet in various trade documents. We don't know if this has made it to the U.S. proposal or not.

[Picked text/plain from multipart/alternative] EU anti-counterfeiting proposals "cannot ignore" internet

05 October 2009

The European Commission's proposed directive to clamp down on counterfeit medicines "cannot ignore" the reality that a "huge percentage" of counterfeits are channelled through the internet, says the new rapporteur for the proposal in Parliament's Committee on the Environment, Public Health and Food Safety (ENVI).

Maria Matias was speaking at a meeting in Parliament on Making Patient Safety a Priority, organised by Aegate, the UK-based company that supplies a pharmacy-level authentication system to sift out counterfeit drugs from the legitimate supply chain.

While the proposed directive released in December 2008 addressed key points of vulnerability in the legal supply chain, the Commission left internet trade to the discretion of the member states, placing it in the wider context of whether national governments allowed sales of prescription medicines online. The issue had already been raised by Adamos Adamou, the previous ENVI rapporteur before the European parliamentary elections last June.

Introducing the meeting, MEP Jorgo Chatzimarkakis pointed to a study by the German Federal Criminal Police Office (Bundeskriminalamt), which found that 80% of counterfeit medicines penetrated the EU supply chain through the internet.

The Commission's proposal should urge the member states to enforce domestic law on internet sales, Chatzimarkakis told the meeting. And countries that permitted internet pharmacies should establish a list of secure websites for the trade.

Legal basis

Other major "gaps" in the proposal highlighted by Matias included broadening its legal basis from the internal market provisions in Article 95 of the EC Treaty to Article 152 on human health protection.

The internal market rules were widely reckoned to have underpinned the Commission's decision not to pursue a ban on repackaging of medicines as an entry point for counterfeits. A ban is still sought by the European Federation of Pharmaceutical Industries and Associations (EFPIA) and is strongly resisted by the parallel import industry.

The new rapporteur mentioned parallel trade and repackaging as complex issues that needed to be addressed in the proposed directive. The question was whether or not the provisions for mandatory safety features should entail a ban on repackaging - although this was "work in progress".

Defining the types of safety features required, and whether they should be risk-based, was another high priority, Matias emphasised. John Ricketts, associate director of government affairs for Lilly Europe, argued for a "compulsory minimum standard" of safety feature, comprising mass serialisation and tamper-evident pack seals. Further security measures would be necessary for those medicines deemed particularly at risk.

John Chave, secretary general of the Pharmaceutical Group of the European Union (PGEU), warned against undermining the precautionary approach demanded by the growing threat of counterfeits. "There's a danger that if you single out certain medicines as risky, you merely push on the counterfeiters to other kinds of medicines," he said.

A risk-based system might also confuse patients: "Do we create a sort of implied guarantee or warrantee that medicines that don't have safety features are thereby safe and free from counterfeiting?"

But Hugo Carradhina, senior manager, health economics affairs for the European Generic Medicines Association, insisted the fight against counterfeiting should focus mainly on behavioural measures such as harmonising criminal law and toughening up requirements for wholesale licences.

Technical solutions should be considered only as a secondary line of defence, and then according to risk assessment based on past incidence and price. Given the low level of counterfeits in the legal supply chain and the ease with which safety features could be replicated, any mandatory features must be proportionate, Carradhina stressed - otherwise, "what we're trying to do here is basically kill a mouse with a tank".

While EFPIA is set to launch the pilot phase of its coding and identification solution - mass serialisation using a 2D data matrix barcode and pharmacy-level authentication - in Stockholm on 20 October, Aegate already has its end-to-end system up and running in four European markets.

Although there are clear parallels with the EFPIA system, one point of contention is what happens to the transactional data picked up in the authentication process. Aegate takes the view - as does PGEU - that these data belong to pharmacists. There are worries that, with an industry-led system, the data will be exploited commercially to secure marketing advantage.

A presentation by Professor Steven Simoens of Belgium's Katholieke Universiteit Leuven testified to both the robustness of the AegateProtect service and its favourable cost-benefit profile. For example, a mystery shopper audit in a sample of Belgian community pharmacies using the system found it was 100% reliable, Professor Simoens reported.

Moreover, a cost-benefit analysis in a hypothetical market where five pharmacy software providers covered 10,000 pharmacies dispensing 400 million drug packs a year concluded that the authentication system would be cost-neutral in a scenario where just 0.47% of products were identified as recalled, expired or suspicious.

Dear Sir or Madam:

Pursuant to the Freedom of Information Act, 5 U.S.C. Section 552 et seq ("FOIA"), I request copies of (or access to) logs of phone calls and meetings, and copies of emails and other correspondence, from January 1, 2002 through December 31, 2004, between the USTR and any officials with Monsanto Co. regarding the World Trade Organization.

I am a reporter for Bloomberg News, an accredited and recognized newsgathering organization. I request the Records to inform the public about matters of public concern.

FOIA requires that the your agency respond to this request within 20 business days. This request is segregable, and your agency may not withhold entire records because of one section that you believe is exempt from disclosure. Under federal law, if you choose to withhold any such parts of the records from disclosure, you must specify in a written response the factual and legal basis for withholding any part of the Records.

In responding to FOIA requests, the agency must operate with a presumption in favor of disclosure. As stated in a January 21, 2009 Presidential Memorandum: "All agencies should adopt a presumption in favor of disclosure, in order to renew their commitment to the principles embodied in FOIA, and to usher in a new era of open Government."

I agree to pay reasonable fees for the Records, including actual costs up to $250. If you estimate that actual costs will exceed this amount, please contact me so that I may make the appropriate arrangements for payment. Please contact me if I may assist in your office's response to this request.

Dear Jacqueline B. Caldwell,

KEI requests all records at USTR on the topic of the policy and practice of USTR regard the transparency of trade negotiations, including but not limited to the Anti-Counterfeiting Trade Agreement (ACTA).

The period for this request is from January 1, 2009 to the present.

KEI intends to use this information to evaluate the degree to which the USTR is providing the public timely and relevant information about important norm setting activities in the area of intellectual property right rules and practices. We expect to publish and share information from the FOIA request on the KEI web page and also write about these issues in the Huffington Post, in academic articles and and in other fora, and to send news releases to journalists and Internet listserves to further disseminate information. KEI is a non-commercial entity that will not benefit commercially from this request, and requests a waiver of fees.

Among the documents that are expected to be relevant to this request are the communications within USTR and between USTR and other federal agencies, the White House and the Congress, and between USTR and the private sector, on the policies regarding transparency of trade negotiations.

This would of course include but not be limited to all discussions of the use of non disclosure agreements to allow selected persons to see versions of documents for the ACTA negotiations, including the determinations of who would be offered access to documents under the NDA, and who would not be offered access to the documents.

Sincerely,

James Love

Dear Ms Caldwell,

As you know, KEI submitted a FOIA request on January 7, 2011, for documents related to ACTA. Among the documents that would be covered by this request is a fairly recent study by the Library of Congress, done upon request for Senator Wyden. This study examined the consistency of US law to ACTA. Senator Wyden or his staff has shared with document with Stan McCoy and other USTR officials. I would very much appreciate as an early deliverable on the other FOIA request, this particular document. I note that we have had a number of media requests for this study, and request from several NGOs and academic experts for this document. Also, I specifically request a digital copy of the document, if one exists. (Additional information about the requested study is available here: <http://keionline.org/node/969>).

Dear Jacqueline B. Caldwell,

Knowledge Ecology International submits this FOIA request, asking for copies of communications between USTR and members of Congress or their staff, on the topic of the proposed Anti-Counterfeiting Trade Agreement. To the extent that such communications were covered in earlier KEI FOIA requests, you may limit the search to newer documents. In fact, you may limit the request to communications from January 1, 2010 to the present.
